Dectors in Allegheny. AN EPIDEMIC OF TYPHOID IS PEARED

Does influence exist in a strong imagination, as some doctors claim, or has the disease actually struck Pittsburg? Dr. D. N. Rankin, the physician of the Western Penitentiary, says the epidemic has already reached here, and is still coming bag and

"As the influenza or epidemic catarrh has made its appearance in different parts of Europe, starting with the Czar of Eussia, we have been expecting its appearance in the United States. Dr. Shost, an eminent observer, states it attacked at once, and rayed over all Europe. tacked at once, and raged over all Europe, not missing a family, and that none died except some children. The next epidemic appeared in 1557. Dr. Fouseen says in this year it infested Asia, thence came to Constantinople, and, having spread itself all over Europe, afterward attacked America, its course being westerly. Dr. Mercatus states that before the beginning of autumn, 1557, it attacked all parts of Spain at once, so that the greatest part of the population of that kingdom was seized with it almost on the same day. Unlike the epidemic of 1510, it was fatal to many. This catarrhal epidemic again made its appearance in 1580. It was in Sicily in June, at Rome in July;

Early in the winter it reached France. A few weeks after it visited the north of Italy with great mor-tality. In February it afflicted Bome, and the Rhine, Turin and Milan suffered severely. It reached Naples in March, and after this

"The influenza of 1732 and 1733 spread over all Europe, and appeared also in America. It was first noticed about the middle of November in different parts of Germany. Edinburgh appears to have been the first place attacked in Britain, which was on the 17th of December, and it raged at the same time in Switzerland. It appeared at London and in Flanders the first week in January. Toward the middle of the same month it reached Paris and Ireland. In February Leghorn was attacked, and near the end of it Naples and Madrid suffered. New England was invaded by the influenza about the middle of October. It traveled southward to the Barbadoes, Jamaica, Mexico and Peru much at the same rate as it had done in Europe.

"The influenzs of 1733 was followed by those of 1741 and 1742. Dr. Huxham reported that in 1743, towards the end of April, it was general in England, and during that spring, spread over all Europe. In England it increased the deaths in London in one week to a thousand. The next remarkable visitation of the influenza was in 1762. An excellent description of it is given by Sir George Baker in his "De Cattarho Epidemico anni 1762." who records its appearance in London on the 4th of April. Pret. Rasoux has given an account of the same disease which was epidemic in Europe generally, in the spring. It attacked Breslau at the end of February, Vienna was visited in March and Hamburg in April. In Venice it was more fatal than in other places.

The influence of 1782 was general over England, Scotland and Ireland between the months of May and June inclusive. It pursued a course from the east "It appeared at St. Petersburg in February, in Denmark in the latter end of April.

From the shores of the Baltic it spread to Halland and the low countries. The influ-eum of the spring of 1803 afforded an occation for collecting a greater number of statistics from different parts of the countries on the subject of this epidemic. The London Medical Society set a laudable example by proposing a set of queries to its corresponding members in a circular letter. One sponding members in a circular letter. One bundred and twenty-lour replies were re-crived containing a mass of very useful in-formation. This epidemic was observed in Paris and in other parts of France and in Heliand some weeks before it appeared in London. Its course seemed to be from south to morth. It was evident that there was a degree of progressive movement north-ward, by marking the time when it was at the height in each place. Yet many of the This is que secounts above alluded to inform us clearly Fifth ave. that sporedic or solitary cases exhibiting the true characters of influenza occurred in several places long before the disease became established—in some cases weeks before it was quite developed.

'The influenza of 1831, though generally mild in its character, was almost universal, for it seems to have prevailed in both hemispheres in the same year. Accounts have been received of its appearance in India, as well as in the United States of America. In many places it has been the precursor of the epidemic cholera. This epidemic of influenza swept over the greater part of England, Scotland and Ireland in the spring and autumn. Late in the autumn it attacked Paris, the South of Spain, Gibraltar and Italy, with more severity than it did the British Islands. At Rome it was said to occasion great alarm. casion great alarm.

THOUSANDS SUFFERING. "In Berlin 30,000 people were suffering at the same time, and at a later period 45,000 in Paris. Another severe epidemic of this disease prevailed in Europe and the United States in 1832, 1837 and another in 1843. It has been estimated by Dr. Graves that in Dublin 4,000 persons died of the influenza reached here, and is still coming bag and backage. The doctor reports that he has several patients in Allegheny suffering from the disease in a mild form. It lasts usually from five to six days, and good care is required. The patient should go to bed for at least a few days. No cases have broken out in the penitentiary, and Dr. Rankin states that the health of the immates is good. The influenza has not yet become epidemic in this neighborhood, and the doctor is doubtful whether it will or not. The tendency of the disease is toward pneumonia, and this is why the greatest care should be taken with patients.

In a long conversation with a DISPATCH reporter yesterday, Dr. Rankin kindly furnished a history of the plague. Among other things he said:

Dublin 4,000 persons died of the influenza of 1837.

"Among the phenomena relating to the weather, which seem to have had a connection with influenza, either as precursor or attendant signs, we may notice extraordinary vicissitudes, castely winds, thick or offensive fogs. Influenza is generally a disease of either spring or autumn. The spring influenza has sometimes occurred when the first, heat suddenly followed the winter's cold, and the autumnal when the cold moisture and rain fogs of November have succeeded to the beat of a dry summer, yet there has not been a uniform connection between any one sensible quality of the atmosphere, as to heat or cold, rain or drought, wind or galm, and the prevalence of this epidemic; for in different places it has maintained itself under the dominion of each of these states of the weather.

"There are no particular phenomena in nature that universally characterize the epidemic constitution which precedes, or that which accompanies the influenza, and we are led to conclude that the causes of this epidemic, supposing them to take their rise in atmospheric changes of a universal nature, are far from being marked by uniformity in the signs. At the same time we are ity in the signs. At the same time we are bound to admit that the sudden changes from warm weather to cold, and from cold weather to warm, with dampness, fogs and easterly winds, have rarely been absent from the list of natural indications. "The influenza, like every other epidemic disease, has given occasion to medical ob-

"Its biblicgraphy is summed up in the following: The first medical history we have of this epidemic dates back to the fifteenth century, 15:10. Of all epidemic disease, has given occasion to medical observers to entertain very opposite views on the rappidity of its march and extent of its range over land and sea, sometimes in both hemispheres, and in different climates, in opposite seasons and in all varieties of weather, among people of all classes is remarkable. The French call it is grippe. It has been called coccolucte, because those attacked were a cap close over their heads. The symptoms of the disease as it then occurred, nearly resembled those which it has assumed in later visitations, severe pain over the eyes, sneering, coryaa, a difficulty of breathing, hoarseness, loss of strength and appetite, fever and harassing cough.

"Of the first epidemic reported, its course these have been in a conthweaterly direct to the attacked to the country at irregular intervals since the last above reported, but none have compared to the one that occurred in 1837."

HUNDREDS SNEEZING.

HUNDREDS SNEEZING. Hundreds of the residents of Allegheny were speezing yesterday, and all who were a filicted were positive that they had la grippe. Judging from the European dispatches, it is no respecter of age or condition in life, and on the Northside this fact has been plainly and painfully demon-strated. Even the street Arabs, while selling papers or blacking while selling papers or blacking boots, stop every once in awhile, look heavenward and sneeze. The little boys who read good books, and go to Sunday school, are interrupted by la grippe while reciting their lessons. The professional men, the business men and the gentlemen of leisure have it. The washwomen, the servants and the ladies of lashion have not asserted. The plerks are very much and It was in Sicily in June, at Rome in July; in August at Venice and Constantinople; in September, in Hungary and Germany; in October, on all the Baltic coast; in November, in Norway; in December, in Denmark, Poland and Bussia, its course being from east and south to west and north.

"The influence of 1638, of which Dr. Willis has given us an secount, visited Europe suddenly in April, and was followed in August by a fatal epidemic fever. In 1675 another epidemic of influences began in Germany in September and in England in October. The influence which raged during the second the ladies of fashion have not escaped. "My back aches, my head aches, and every bone in my body feels as if it had been broken," was the way he described his condition. "I don't know where I got it," he continues, "unless it was from my boy, who had something like this last week. It may be only a bad cold, but it is the worst attack I ever had. There are many cases in this neighborhood, and within the next week I expect to hear of many more."

Dr. Kirker was seen in his office on North

Diamond street yesterday, and when asked what he knew of the influenza said: "There are a great many cases in Allegheny, and from the way it is aprending I believe there will be double the present number by New Year's. Many physicians are inclined to laugh it off, but I have seen several patients yesterday and to-day who were very ill. We treat it only as a severe cold. There is no medical term for it, because it has never been so universal before. It is not danger-ous in itself, but the after effects are bad. The victim feels depressed both in mind and body. I know of a case where the patient practically recovered ten days ago, but he is yet weak and debilitated.

RAD WEATHER FOR THE SICK.

"The present weather is very bad for con-"The present weather is very bad for convalescent people and persons who have weak constitutions. It is the kind of weather which breeds the germs of disease and makes such an epidemic possible as the one they are now having in Europe. The victim is attacked very suddenly. I saw a lady the other day who was enjoying the best of health at 10 o'clock in the morning, and as 2 o'clock that afternoon I was at her bedside. There are also more cases of typhoid lever in Allegheny than we have had for years."

In this connection Dr. Edmundson said vesterday that he feared an epidemic of typhoid fever was imminent. Within the past few days a few cases of a very malignant type have come under his notice, and the remarkable weather is conducive to its rapid propagation.

A visit to the Bureau of Health headquarters yesterday revealed the fact that not one case had been reported yesterday, not even one of death from ordinary causes, al-

ALLEGHENY COUNCILMEN ARE RUBBED

The test of the new electric car on the Pittsburg, Allegheny and Manchester line which was to have come off early yesterday norning did not materialise. The car is still at the short line stables, an object of wonder to the railway employes. The cause given for the experiment which did not take place was that the patentee did not have all his machinery on hand, and post-poned the test for several days. Whether JACOB SPOHN, NO. 200 Correct street. it will be a success or not is a matter that cannot be answered at present. The patent was worked successfully on the Ridge road line in Philadelphia, and the inventor claims it will also work in this city.

The car is equipped with a storage electric battery which propels it along the streets. It is an electric system of transportation by which no wires, overhead or underground, are needed. It is very cheap, and if it can be worked successfully it will be a formida-ble competitor of cable lines and other sysble competitor of cable lines and other systems of electric roads.

From present indications it looks as if the Manchester traction line will not be in operation for a long time. It was expected when the idea of changing the motive power was agitated, that the horses would be superseded with cables or electricity within one year. The matter is in such shape now that it may be several years before anything is done. It is tied up in Ailegheny Councils, and according to the statements of Commodore Kounts, the company does not care whether the the company does not care whether the Councilmen give them the privilege of changing their motive power or not.

COUNCILMEN RUBBED. The Commodore was seen at his residence yesterday afternoon by a DISPATCH reporter. To the questions of the latter the Commodore said: "The matter of granting us permissaid: "The matter of granting us permission to change our motive power is in the hands of a Councilmanie Committee. From present indications the people will have to elect a new set of Councilmen before they get the rapid transit they have been clamoring for. Nearly every man in Councils wants us to do something, if you please, for the permission they give us for changing our power. The line is better stock to run with horses than it would be to run it with the cable. If the members of Councils exercised the same spirit of liberality that is shown us by Mr. Kennedy they would subserve the interests of the people better than they do at present. Mr. Kennedy has tried to get the thing through because he knows it is going to benefit the people. He is a young man, with a great deal of liberality and a desire to encourage improvements to the desire to encourage improvements to "Councils have no right to make any de-"Councils have no right to make any demands upon the company other than to restrict the rate of apeed of the cars within the city limits. I do not believe that they should be allowed to run at a faster rate than nine miles per hour. When the Councilmen get outside this and want to meddle with the tracks and other matters they are going a trifle too far. If I owned every dollars in the company I would run the road until the day of my death before I would be coerced into doing anything that is not equitable with honesty and fairness. I think I speak the sentiments of President Dalzell when I say the road will run with horses until Councils do what is right with ns. If the people complain let them. We can stand it as long as they can.

"We have shown our willingness to give the needle rapid transit. If we cannot get permission to change the power we do not care. We have a charter to run a horse car line, and as long as the dividends are satisfactory to the stockholders we will continue to run the cars with horses. Our charter is perpetual, and there is no compulsion. A DON'T CABE SPIRIT. perpetual, and there is no compulsion about giving the people rapid transit. Until the Councilmen come to their senses we cannot do anything. After we get permission from Councils it will take three months before we could get our iron made. Then it would take five months more to get the road built.
"No, the company will not reduce the rate of fare. We sell five tickets for 25 cents. The object in making people pay 6 cents for a single trip is to force the regular patrons to buy tickets. When they do this the company gets the money. When every person pays their fare in cash the company takes what is left by the conductors. I do not care what the members of Council think of the matter. As far as I am individually concerned the fare will stay where it is at 6 On the other hand the people along Ohio and Federal streets are very much opposed to four tracks on the streets. They object to giving the streets up entirely to railways, especially when two tracks would answer the purpose. They are also decidly opposed to the payment of 6-cent fares, and a most beautiful fight is yet to be waged before the matter will be settled. Rapid transit has made travel on the streets exceedingly dangerous.
